

ST. PETERSBURG
20 ANGELSKIJ PROSPJEKT.

Aueputka

Miss Kathleen Parlow

c/o ~~London~~ London Charlton
Carnegie Hall

New York City
U. S. America

ST. PETERSBURG
26 ANGLISKIJ PROSPEKT.

25 Dec. 1913

9 January, 1914

My dear Kathleen;

The most enjoying greetings for the "European" Christmas I received, was Your long, charming letter with all the musical inter-oceanic news and gossip, with all the interesting details of yourself. -

Of course, You cannot judge Yourself of the improvement in Your playing, but nevertheless it exists and must be so with every talented artiste; for instance, I played here the Beethoven a week ago and people did find I never have done it so well - think in

II

ST. PETERSBURG
26 ANGLISKIJ PROSPERT.

my age! But between 20-30, practising with attention, the musical-artistical feeling goes ahead and altogether produces this high perfection which impresses people when hearing big artists. —

I saw Your New York programme
in the paper and was agreeably astonished seeing 3 of my transcriptions on it; very glad to hear that the "Kugel" producing such a favorable impression.

I hear and know nothing about
May Harrison. — Beatrix gave concerts in Berlin and Vienna supported by D'Albert. — Curious d'Albeats warm interest for Violoncell - Sonates!

We had no violonists from abroad all the winter, in exchange
my boys and girls giving concerts
here and in the province - towns.

Mrs. Berson, Mrs. Hansen, Piastro,
Poliakoff, Heipetz. - The latter plays the 12th
February the Glazunoff Concerto
at the Leipzig - Gewandhaus with Nikisch! Encorez du peu!
a 13 year boy!

Could you give me some news about Macmillan? I had no news from him since he left Dresden
in the autumn. - Mrs. Stein

IV

ST. PETERSBURG
26 ANGLISKIJ PROSPEKT.

is very sensible to your and Mother's love; she is very busy all the season with the anglo-saxon pupils;
there are 18 with me this winter;
the greatest number I ever had all the years. - And now I must finish; we have the first Christmas day in Russia; 8-10 degrees lower 0 - Réaumur; pretty cold; I must go to see some friends; but before going out I send You my human and artistic blessing with my heartiest Kisses and best wishes for Your further success. -

L. v. Auer

My best love to Mother.

Will we see You this summer? I hardly can expect the time to go to Loschwitz.

My best greetings to dear Keith and Backhouse.